The screenshot shows the Apache NetBeans IDE 12.5 interface. The main editor window displays the source code for `Farm.java`. The code defines a `Farm` class with a `main` method that initializes a `FarmAnimal` object. The output window shows the execution results, including the author's name, the initialized `FarmAnimal` object, and the current date and time.

package ec.edu.espe.farm.view;

import ec.edu.espe.farm.model.Chicken;
import ec.edu.espe.farm.model.FarmAnimal;
import java.time.LocalDate;

/
 *
 * @author Joel Zeas
 */
public class Farm {

    public static void main(String[] args) { FarmAnimal farmAnimal;
        int id = 0;
        String breed = "any";
        LocalDate bornOn = LocalDate.of(2020, 12, 15);
    }
}
```

Output:

```
run:
